MacParfootin on Broadway

Street Singers.

THERE was a time when I would have given my all to have a front exposure in whatever apartment I happened to be occupying. There seemed to be a great lure about the streets and the unendingly vocal threads of traffic that honked and snorted up and down the block for twenty-four hours of every day. A court exposure was tantamount to leading a dreary backyard existence, with wet wash and long flannel underwear staring you unceremoniously in the face, while unseasonably diurnal shadows played havoc with your classic features.

That is all over now, and I am gladly reconciled to our inside suite that gives me ocular access to about seven stories of blinded (alas) windows, and a patch of sky about two feet square. The main reason for this sudden change of heart is the fact that our streets have become flooded with a new kind of menace. It is a menace far worse than the street corner orator, who at the very worst is rooted to one spot. Far worse, too, than the panhandler, who can only get you on the pavement. Far worse, I am afraid, than the vocal studio; worse even than the little huddles we used to complain about in the Redpath Library.

WALKING TONSILS.

I REFER of course, as the previous caption implies, to a form of outdoor art, which is hardly related to the bearer of the same title on the radio. The latter case is very obviously a crass misnomer, and besides he gets paid extremely well for his efforts.

The street singers that are here the object of scrutiny are of a different sort. Victims of the Depression, they are too proud to beg. They are blessed with a talent which they are too proud to waste on the Met or the airwaves. Their audiences must be closer to them, wider, and just a little less merciful. And so you will hear them, even if you cannot see them, at any hour, walking up any of the side streets, megaphone in hand and with a voice much too good for a hog-calling contest, singing the sweetest songs, so fervently, so loudly, so persistently and so annoyingly—and by some strange coincidence, the only thing which will encourage them to move on is a shower of coins. They probably detest filthy lucre so, that they cannot long remain where it is so freely bandied about.

Tear Jerkers.

TWO of the most favorite songs you are likely to hear, for some reason or other, is one about somebody's Old Motherrrrr, and the other has to do with the Beautifulllll Ladessssss in Bloooooo. You are sometimes really fortunate, for on occasion your front-exposed window is as likely as not to find itself surrounded with a singer of this type accompanied by an entourage, a six or seven-piece orchestra.

Let it be clearly understood that I am in no way opposed to this free and easy expression of artistic talent. Nor are the only bad singers in the world confined to the streets. I simply wish to observe that I have suddenly grown especially fond of my apartment, because, with all its drawbacks, it faces an inner court, and in spite of the blinded windows, and tiny patch of sky, there is absolutely no approach to it from the street, and the only noises you are likely to hear are ambulance sirens.

Regular Cut-up.

SPEAKING of ambulance sirens I ran into a little bit of heavy dramma this morning on West 68th Street, just a stone's throw from the Park. Parked in front of the large apartment house on the north side of the street was a city ambulance, and a police car, and, the inevitable crowd. The inevitable well-informed-observer was in this,

DR. J. MOTT AT S. C. M. MEETING SUNDAY NIGHT

Noted Author Is President of Y.M.C.A.'s World Committee

FINANCIAL DRIVE BEGINS
Week of October 18 to 25
Set for Campaign; Objective Is $750

DR. JOHN R. MOTT, one of the most-travelled men in the world, a well-known author, and chairman of the World-Committee of the Y.M.C.A. will be the first guest-speaker of the Student Christian Movement's "Open-House" meeting this Sunday evening.

DR. J. R. MOTT

Speaks at S.C.M. Sunday Evening

Born in the state of New York, Dr. Mott received his education at Upper Iowa University and Cornell. In 1896, he founded the World Student Christian Federation and was its secretary for 25 years. He has spent many years in the mission field, travelling to India, China, Japan, and the Dutch East Indies.

Dr. Mott is the author of many books, among the most recent of which are: "The Liberation of the Lay Forces of Christianity," "The Present Day Summons to the World Mission of Christianity," and "The Leadership of the Constructive Forces of the World." In addition to his books, he has written many pamphlets, articles, reports, and forewords, and has edited the works of many others.

HISTORICAL CLUB BEGINS SEASON

The McGill Historical Club will begin the new season today at one p.m., in room 43 of the Arts Building, and is holding this first meeting of its 41st year with the purpose of recruiting new members. President H. K. Markell is to outline the plans of this society for the coming year, which in the past have always included a closing dinner meeting with the R.V.C. Historical Club. The executive extends an invitation to all students and graduates interested in historical problems to attend the meetings and to take part in the progress which the officers have planned for the season.

This society is the oldest organization on the Campus, and has had on its rolls such prominent men as Sir Arthur Currie, Dr. Stephen Leacock, Dr. C. W. Colby, Professor A. S. Noad of the Department of English, Professor Laskinow of London University, and T. W. L. McDermot, head of Upper Canada College. With a background of this sort, the present executive, consisting of President Markell, Vice-President L. A. Seton, and Secretary-Treasurer C. von Cardinal, are planning a programme for the year which they promise will be up to the high standard of the programmes in the past, and offer this opportunity of becoming members of the Club to all students and graduates.

Information Bureau Helps Freshmen Choose Clubs

ONE of the innovations on the campus this year is the formation of a Freshman Information Bureau. The purpose of this bureau is to enable Freshmen to come in contact with one another as well as with the various clubs and undergraduate societies on the college campus.

Don Williams, head of the department, has listed all the undergraduate clubs and societies, and the names of the various presidents, together with the time, date, and place of the first meeting of each. All Freshmen are asked by the Bureau executive to study this list, after which they will be in a position to decide on those societies of which they are desirous of becoming a member.

McGILL DAILY: JOHN H. MACDONALD, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.

The Daily is the official organ of the Student's Council. As a newspaper, it offers an opportunity for experience in every phase of newspaper work. Promotions on the staff are made solely on the basis of merit, beginning with the reporter staff and working up. Candidates should apply to the Managing Board or the Daily office in the Union.

RED AND WHITE REVUE, DANIEL O. DOHENY, Producer.

The Red and White is McGill's annual musical production, to be held this year on the 9th to 12th of March, inclusive. It is almost entirely the original work of the students, and offers experience in every branch of the theatre, both on the stage, and behind the scenes. Casting will begin about the beginning of February.

GLIDER PRESENTED TO FLYING CLUB

Plah Meet at St. Hubert—Mr. Norman Donator—Students Invited

ON next Sunday, October 17, a red-letter day for the McGill Flying Club, Mr. Norman Holland will formally present the Club, with a new Slingsby primary glider, a fine type of training machine. The ceremony will take place at St. Hubert Airport at 3 p.m.

Through the kindness of Mr. Banghart, the airport manager, members of the Club will give a gliding demonstration starting about 2 p.m. in the veteran Northrop machine, which, up to now, has been the Club's only trainer. After the presentation, the new glider will be flown by members.

McGill students and others interested are cordially invited to avail themselves of this opportunity to see the Flying Club in action and to learn something of their activities.

WORLD NEWS FROM A TELEGRAPH KEY

BRITISH

PRIME MINISTER Neville Chamberlain tried to assure Italy by implication that the British people were always ready to let bygones be bygones in international affairs.

"If we are attacked we should know how to defend ourselves as we have always done in the past," said the Prime Minister at a dinner of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. "But it is not in the temperament of our people to bear malice and I think we have the shortest memory for quarrels of any nation in the world."

Although Mr. Chamberlain did not mention Italy or any other nation by name, his words were an echo of last summer's assurance by Foreign Minister Anthony Eden that "the word 'vendetta' has no English equivalent."

The Prime Minister's statement, like Mr. Eden's of a few months ago, seemed to be an effort to reduce the tension of Europe, particularly between Rome and London.

CHINESE

TWO 50-pound bombs from Japanese airplanes landed squarely within the lines of the American marines at Markham road near the west Szechow road at 2:40 yesterday afternoon, blasting completely away two marine sandbag emplacements and wrecking one trackless trolley, killing the seven Chinese occupants and wounding 32 more Chinese in the trolley and in the street nearby.

Chinese air forces made their early morning raids on Japanese positions near Shanghai, while Chinese land forces immediately north of the city struck in a desperate counter-attack.

The fighting continued savage exchanges between Chinese aircraft and Japanese warships and land forces late Thursday which subjected the International Settlement to one of the most dangerous showers of shell fragments it has suffered in two months of warfare.

Two Americans, a marine and a sailor, were injured slightly in the deadly hail.

GERMAN

THE exchange of notes between Germany and Belgium guaranteeing the latter's independence was hailed in German quarters as the crowning achievement of Chancellor Hitler's "dynamic peace policy" which opens the way for the peaceful reorganization of Europe under auspices so powerful that nobody dare resist it by resorting to war.

Hitler's new coup in the west is considered here as the final blow to the democracies' "encirclement policy," President Roosevelt's "presumptuous censure" of the dictatorships notwithstanding.

One immediate effect is seen in France's retreat on the Spanish issue—her abandonment of the threat to open the Pyrenees or take other "security measures" in the Mediterranean, and her consent to discuss the Spanish issue in the Non-Intervention Committee. For this credit is given to Prime Minister Chamberlain, but German policy is by no means willing to rest on its laurels.

ITALIAN

RELIABLE Vatican source said that the Holy See condones Japanese military activity in China wherever Communism appears to be the enemy.

This policy was said in well-informed Vatican quarters to represent a normal expansion of Pope Pius' increasingly militant campaign against Bolshevism. It was described as being in harmony with the Vatican's attitude toward the Spanish civil war and with the outspoken attacks on Communism which His Holiness made in his encyclicals of March 18 and September 29.

The Vatican source said this policy had been set forth in a private memorandum defining the Church's position in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Catholic representatives in the Far East were said to have received instructions to adapt themselves to this policy. Wherever in China the Communist peril seemed real they have been told, this source said, "to support without reserve, Japanese action."

FRESHMEN COMPETE FOR BOVEY SHIELD ON COMING MONDAY

Debating Union Activities Commence With Newcomers' Speaking Contest

FEATURED IN MUSIC ROOM

Japanese Boycott to Form Subject of First Mock Parliament's Discussion on October 27

FRESHMAN orators will have their say on Monday afternoon as the Debating Union commences its activities with the annual contest for the Bovey Shield. This award, donated by Colonel Wilfrid Bovey, is open for competition amongst freshmen and second year students who are newcomers to the University. Aspirants will assemble at four o'clock in the Music Room of the Union and speak on whichever side of the resolution they are allotted.

The resolution itself, in the desire to foster extemporaneous speaking, is only announced in the Daily on the morning of the contest. Alfred Pick, President of the Debating Union, will be in the chair, but the Judges have not as yet been announced.

Participants in the contest have frequently proceeded therefrom to a very active debating career at the University. Past winners include Dave Lewis, Rhodes Scholar and one time president of the Oxford Debating Union; Mel Doig, erstwhile president of the McGill Debating Union; Edmund Collard and William Hasler.

The winner this year will be allowed to lead whichever side of the House he favors at the opening Mock Parliament scheduled for Wednesday, October 27. On that occasion the probable subject for discussion will be the desirability of a popular boycott of Japanese goods by the Canadian people.

NOMINATIONS SLOW IN FROSH VOTING

Upper Years Hold Elections in Arts Building at One Today

THE deadline for nomination of officers to the executive of the Freshman class has been advanced to noon today, due to insufficient interest shown on the part of the students. The executive of the Arts Undergraduate Society states that it hopes there will be a marked increase in the number of nominations in order to afford a broad basis for the forthcoming elections these will be held early next week.

TWO RECORDS TOPPLE IN TRACK MEET YESTERDAY

GRIDDERS AWAIT VARSITY

Robb Out With Boils, Unlikely to Play

McCONNELL ON BACKFIELD

Return of Halfback Offsets Loss of Robb—Large Crowd Expected for Football Classic

by mub

"BEAT Varsity Again" is the cry that re-echoes through the corridors, around the Campus and in the Fieldhouse as McGill's senior football team wound up its scrimmage practice for the game on Saturday. Concentrating all their energies on duplicating last year's surprising victory, the Red-men are set to throw the intercollegiate champions for a loss.

A rabid band of Red supporters, will roar the team on its way to triumph.

ROBB NOT PLAYING

Coach Doug Kerr has kept his spirits up despite considerable hard luck. No sooner does Russ McConnell return to the line-up than Prestie Robb, all-star snap and an important cog in the McGill defence, is kept on the side-lines with an attack of boils. Ernie Rossiter will be pressed into snapping duties with Harry Eisberg being brought up from the intermediates as reserve.

The backfield promises to be in good shape with bright prospects of some fancy running by Merrifield, McConnell, MacArthur and Hamilton. The kicking duties will be handled by either MacArthur or Hamilton. Coach Kerr has not as yet decided which it will be. Merrifield and McConnell will be receivers of Cam Gray's lofty kicks.

Andy Anton and Andy Anderson will carry the brunt of the line plunges with Cam MacArthur charging through for some heavy work. Ken McQuarrie and Anton will be glaring at each other from opposite lines this year.

Two years ago, with McQuarrie as bucking half on the Red team, they both alternated at tearing gaps in opposing lines. It will be interesting to watch what each does on Saturday.

Varsity Footballers Intend to Avenge Last Year's Defeat

By A. C. FORREST.

Sports Editor, Toronto Varsity.

TORONTO, October 13.—Warren Stevens and his Varsity stalwarts are to be entertained at the Stadium Saturday afternoon, when the McGill gridders play their first Intercollegiate game of the season before the home-town supporters, and the Beavers are out to avenge the defeat that they suffered the last time they invaded Montreal.

The Blues have won both the games that they have figured in to date, beating the powerful Balmy Beach in the city championship for the DeGruchy Cup, 13-1, and then taking a 9-3 decision from Queen's last Saturday. But the Tricolor was not beaten by as much as the score would indicate. There was little doubt that Queen's suffered some bad luck, as Thornton hit the goalposts twice when kicking for place-kicks.

Cam Gray, who is doing well in the place left vacant by Bob Isbister, scored all the points in the Queen's struggle, with three perfect placement kicks in the first half; he has gained a reputation for himself as a perfect kicker.

Don Mumford, Varsity's big half-back, has been doing most of the plunging, and his weight makes him a hard man to stop. Jim MacDonald, alternate flying wing, played a great game on Saturday and he seems to be shaping into a player who will go places before the season is over. Shuken, another new man on the first team, drew cheers as one of the stars, while Ivan Edwards, Casson, Beatty, Sirdevan and Holden are veterans who are still going strong.

Barrie Gray, regular Varsity quarterback, suffered an injured shoulder, and it is expected that he will be out of the game for some time. Murray Scott will be taking his place on the regular line until Gray gets into action again.

In the Queen's-Varsity struggle the collegians reverted to the old two bucks and a kick method, and the forward passing wasn't as much in evidence as it has been during the past two seasons.

Although in the first game of the season the Beavers were guilty of many fumbles, as were their opponents, the Beavers, they seemed to get it out of their system and played a steady defensive game against Reeve's squad.

The University of Toronto band will be accompanying the team, and this year they will march onto the gridiron resplendent in brand new Blue and White uniforms. It is expected that a great number of Toronto supporters will be taking the trip to McGill, and will help the fifty members of the band and the cheer-leaders shout the U. of T. aggregation on to victory.

BIOLOGICAL SOCIETY

"Education and Biology" is the topic chosen for the opening meeting of the Biological Society's activities for this session. The meeting will take place Thursday, October 21st, at 8:00 in the Music Room of the McGill Union.

The subject to be discussed next Thursday is in line with the new policy of the Biological Society, which consists in discussing topics of general biological interest rather than any highly specialized branches of biology. This program is designed to interest students not only of biology but of related social sciences.

The type of meeting to be adopted is that of a symposium conducted by Harry Plead. One or two speakers will give brief papers introducing the topic for discussion, after which the audience will be expected to contribute their share to the discussion.

FRESHMAN NOMINATIONS.

The deadline for nominations to the positions on the first year executive has been advanced to noon of today. Nominations must be signed by ten members of the class of Arts and Science '41 and handed to Bill Gentleman.

LOVE WINS POLE VAULT

Clarry Frankton Breaks Three-Mile Mark

COOKE, MASON DO WELL

Cold Weather and Sticky Track Cause Slow Times

By DOUG CAMPBELL.

SWEEEPING aside all opposition the Meds. roared through to a glorious victory in the Interfaculty Track Meet held at Molson Stadium yesterday afternoon. McGill's future doctors finished with 47 points while Dentistry, the next in line, ended up with only 28 points to its credit.

The Meds. showed a good all-round squad collecting points in almost every event. Its outstanding athlete of the day was Mason, while Moskowitz, Cooke, Love and Frankton occupied the star roles for their respective faculties. Moskowitz copped first place in the 100 yard dash and also in the High Hurdles. Cooke won the 880 yard run and the one mile. Bert Love again established his supremacy in the pole-vaulting, breaking an old record, while Frankton again took first place in the three mile run.

COOKE PROMISING.

L. Cooke, a newcomer to McGill, shows a lot of promise. He's had plenty of experience having run against such great runners as Bonthrum, well known to all followers of track and field contests. He had a chance to go to Japan this year but turned it down to come to McGill. All the boys that saw him run yesterday afternoon are comparing him to Dr. Phil. Edwards of McGill fame.

Two records were blasted into oblivion yesterday when Bert Love pole-vaulted to the height of 11' 8", smashing the old record of 11' 6" held by Consiglio. Love won the event at 10' 6", and then went on to jump over a foot higher and thus break the record—a thing which he has been trying to do ever since he first started pole-vaulting.

The other record that was cracked wide open was that made last year by Clarry Frankton when this year he bettered last year's mark in a beautiful performance and exhibition of physical stamina. Todd clung to his heels for the whole race except the last lap when Clarry opened up with a fast sprint that left Todd about a quarter of a lap in the rear.

TEAM NOT PICKED YET.

The showings made yesterday will not necessarily determine the team that will make the trip to Toronto for the Intercollegiate Meet, and everyone who took part in the meet yesterday is sincerely asked to keep on turning out at the practices as there will be places for quite a number on the team.

The Intermediate Team will be picked early next week, and there will probably be additional time trials to determine the Senior team. On the whole Van Wagner was very pleased with the showing of the team. The loss of Gordie Meiklejohn from the team will necessarily weaken the team considerably in the field events, but is expecting to put a good all-round team on the field when they enter.

NEWMAN CLUB MASS

ON Sunday, October 17, at 9:45 a.m., the Newman Club will hold its regular meeting in the Congress Hall of St. Patrick's Church, situated at 454 Dorchester street west.

The guest speaker of the meeting will be Rev. William Ryan, P.P., graduate of the Catholic University of Washington. The subject of his address will be "Robert Southwell."

A cordial invitation is extended to all Catholic students attending the University.

The meeting will be preceded by a communion breakfast in Lady's Chapel, St. Patrick's Church.

Years of Discretion

If our educational system is worth anything, a young man or woman who has succeeded in passing the matriculation examinations should also have succeeded in reaching years of discretion. Educationalists inform us that their system is a preparation for life. If it is so, then the product of that system should be able to conduct himself like a good citizen and like a gentleman. But certain educationalists seem to fear the success of their own efforts. The college student is frequently treated as if he were still a smutty-faced little prep-school kid, whose teacher was always at hand to wipe his nose and see that he didn't do what he didn't ought. That the college restrictions are adapted to a slightly higher form of mentality than the average thirteen year-old does not excuse their mere existence. At the Abbey of Theleme, Rabelais informs us, there was only one rule: "Do as you please." For, after all, there is in humankind, such a thing as honour.

We were prompted to write this editorial by certain examples of college discipline brought to our attention recently. Smaller colleges were the worst offenders. Their officials seem to have a downright distrust of human nature, an attitude which borders on misanthropy. Southwestern Junior College at Keene, Texas, is an extreme example. The students can't smoke, dance, go to the movies, possess automobiles, drink liquor, gamble, bet, attend "clandestine meetings", use profanity, turn in false fire alarms, or even have organized games and sports. The co-eds must not use lip-stick or rouge, wear sleeveless dresses, fancy hats, or jewelry. The college library contains no fiction, and private theatricals are barred. Every student must work for at least seven hours a week for pay. In short, there is absolutely no means of escaping from the straight and narrow. Or is there? We would be willing to bet that there is more secret vice of a more objectionable sort at Southwestern than at any college where it is taken for granted that most of the students are gentlemen, who will make the rest conform.

But even at large colleges the same low opinion of student honour prevails. Only last year Harvard was up in arms over the so-called "parietal rules": Girls could not visit boys' rooms in the afternoon without another girl along as chaperon. The students at once declared that the authorities were insulting their fair guests, that they were casting the first stone—more shame to them! Then, too, at Harvard there used to be compulsory attendance at chapel, till the Harvard "Lampoon" sent a candid cameraman down to record the students snoring during the sermon.

Across the border, we are little better. S.C.M. conference leaders who travel around find that the most burning question at certain colleges is whether dancing shall be permitted or not. This feeling of doubt regarding the propriety of certain simple amusements indicates that these supposedly educated people are really only half-baked. They are not sufficiently sure of themselves to act according to their own conscience.

But in a metropolitan university such as McGill such frivolous questions will not arise? We have now a new hall of residence for male students. We have long had one for co-eds. Let us not have the undoubted benefits of these institutions marred by petty restrictions which cast reflections upon the character of the residents. We do not wish to carp and criticize unnecessarily. We simply hope that a new institution at McGill may not get off to a bad start; that next year's students will not be warned off by former residents who have been made to feel that they have not yet attained "years of discretion".

Freshman Information Bureau

This college year sees the inauguration of an organization that has been needed on the campus for many years—the Freshman Information Bureau. The movement to initiate the incoming class to the various clubs and societies at McGill is being sponsored by the Students' Council.

At least once a year there is a lengthy discussion on the merits of affiliations with institutions outside the circle of academic life. The generally accepted opinion has been that extra-curricular activities are necessary, if a student is to gain a full and comprehensive education.

The organization of the Information Bureau has as its aim the identification of the student body with clubs and societies, so that campus life will not be confined to study alone. It intends to co-operate to the fullest extent with the organizations concerned. The DAILY is publishing, elsewhere in this issue, a list of undergraduate associations. The Freshman is urged to affiliate himself with at least one of these during the course of his college year. The Bureau will give him the greatest co-operation in selecting the club in which he is most interested.

Stage and Music

A New Season and the Montreal Orchestra

THIS winter will see the Montreal Orchestra in its eighth consecutive season. That it should still loom large on the Musical horizon is interesting and significant, but that it should be at last on a sound financial footing is more striking. This is due not only to the high quality of last year's concerts but also to the strenuous drive made by last year's team of workers to obtain season-subscribers and supporting members. The same type of campaign is being carried on this year with, if possible, even more vehemence. Last year it took seven hundred subscribers for the orchestra to break even. That seven hundred was an increase of four hundred over the number of the year before. This season, say the campaign leaders, must see one thousand subscribers: and these should not be difficult to obtain—judging from the advance notices of the entertainment to be provided over the winter.

Mr. Clarke will conduct the orchestra in a series of ten concerts, held at 3.15 p.m. in His Majesty's Theatre on alternate Sundays. For these concerts ten notable soloists have been engaged. Among these are a number of distinguished personalities in the world of music and some interesting younger artists who are rapidly becoming well-known. Among the former we are to hear: Percy Grainger, known all over the world for his compositions and as a virtuoso of the piano; Felix Salmond, the eminent English 'Cellist; and William Primrose, another English artist who, with his viola, is a member of the famous London String Quartet. Among the latter, and younger artists, will appear Charles Naegele, a rising young American pianist of Swiss ancestry whose European renown is already high, and Beal Hober the well-known American soprano. In addition to these ten regular concerts, a series of four concerts for young people will also be given.

Such a program and such careful organizing are worthy of support, as many students have already felt. Montreal was too long without music in any form, and if it desires to keep the orchestra it must work for it. Any student sufficiently interested in music or the orchestra to want to sell tickets, or even take out a season's subscription are asked to call at room 2002 in the Mount Royal Hotel, or to telephone LA. 5453.

Concerts Symphoniques

The Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal will give their first concert in Plateau Hall tonight at 8.30. Jean-Marie Beaudet, a well-known French-Canadian pianist, will be the soloist, and the program is as follows:

(Wilfrid Pelletier, of the Metropolitan, is conducting.)

Symphony No. 6 (Pastorale)...Beethoven
Concerto in A Minor.....Schumann
(Piano and Orchestra)

Symphony No. 1.....Shostakovich
Tone Poem: Don Juan...Richard Strauss

The Shostakovich Symphony is being played for the first time in Montreal.

Vacation Pests

THEY never fail to happen. They crop up before, during, and after your vacation. They are one of the laws of nature.

The first ones come in a group. They are the ones who try to plan your vacation for you. They sit in your parlour, ignore your remarks, your suggestions, your very presence, and decide where you are going for your vacation. There are never two of them who agree on the same plan. One is sure you ought to go to the mountains, with all its pure air; one is sure you ought to go to the sea-shore, with its healthy sunshine; one is sure you ought to go to Ottawa, with all its government buildings; one is sure you ought to go to New York, with all its skyscrapers; one is sure you ought to go to the Thousand Islands, with all its—well, all its islands. And so, on and on, and on, and on.

If you are possessed of only an ordinary amount of will power, you'll be so discouraged that you'll decide not to go anywhere for your vacation. Your friends will be very sorry and go home triumphant. After all, no one of them has yielded to another. If you have more than the average amount of will power, you will rise, pale, but with a dangerous glint in your eyes, and say, "As I've been trying to tell you all evening, I'm going to Toronto for my vacation. I've already bought my ticket, made reservations at the hotel, and written friends that I'm coming." That will be that.

They come to the station with you. They tell you all about Toronto, what to go and see, and to write long letters every day. You can say to them that you are going to Toronto to find out about the city at first hand, that your friends there know exactly what to see, and that you'll be sure to write long post-cards every day.

The train pulls out of the station and you sigh with relief. You open your window a little way, just enough, and settle down to read. But the man opposite you insists that the reason you opened the window only a little way is because you had no strength to open it any farther. You protest, but in vain. He proceeds to open it all the way. In the process, he steps on your suitcase, throws your book down, and twists your hat over one ear. He opens it all the way. The wind turns the pages of your book and blows your hat off completely. You put your book away, close your eyes, and lean back. Your eyes are so full of soot that you can't read anyway.

YOUR friends meet you, you get settled in your hotel, and prepare to go out with them. Before starting, however, one of them leans over to you with a beaming countenance and says confidentially, "Well, how do you like Toronto?" Don't bother about the fact that you haven't even seen the place yet. Just say that it's the nicest city in the world. You'll have to get used to that.

This is a type of pest that is repeated many times during your vacation. Also another. He never gets tired of saying how superior Toronto is to your own city,—how much more cultural, more beautiful and more efficient Toronto is than your own city. Don't argue. Admit all he says, even though he's never seen your city. Also another. He thinks that you came to Toronto to eat. Every half-hour he says, "You must be hungry after all this sight-seeing. Come and have a bite." You don't feel so good, but it's polite to refuse only once every three times.

All in all, you've had a lovely time in Toronto and come home eager to tell everybody all about it. Your chance soon comes, or you think it does. One of your friends says, "Well, did you enjoy your stay in Toronto?" You open your mouth, but close it in disappointment. Your friend is already telling you how he enjoyed HIS stay in Toronto, or, less relevantly and more probably, his stay in Quebec. Sometimes you manage to get a word in. Then, again, sometimes you don't.

During the winter of that year, when you are equidistant from last vacation and next vacation, the final pest comes: "I hear you were in Kingston last summer. Did you have a nice time?"

—BELLA LEVITT.

Frosh Work!

Following an old tradition, once a year the frosh don old clothes and prepare to dig in with a vengeance. This year one of the features of the program will be the hand picking of stones, carrying them over to the stadium convict style, and arranging them in a rip-rap construction near the track.

As in other years, professors, deans and upper year students are advised to bring their cars to be washed. The freshmen will clean the cars and simonize them if polish is left.

Another project to be carried out is the levelling, rolling and liming of the track.

Fashion Notes in Radio.

From time to time the fashion in program arrangements changes. We've had all kinds of eras on the air. There was the time when "Variety Programs" were the rage; it was almost impossible to get a single broadcast that had any type of coherence. Planlessness was the watchword. At another time we had the "Amateur Hour" craze. And what a craze! Every two-by-fifteen-seconds program had amateurs on it; and they were the real thing, too. Real, honest-to-goodness amateurs that actually sounded as if they had saved the last penny of profit on last year's crop of eggs, took the first horse-drawn cart out of town and intended to make good on the radio. That was the time when so many irate husbands traded their radio-receivers for washing machines.

All that was in the past, however, when radio broadcasting was in its infancy. Despite the fact that we still have a few amateur programmes on the air, we may safely venture to assume that broadcasting has come into its adolescent period. The few amateurs whom we do hear nowadays are more or less above the rank amateur stage. Radio is definitely on the way to become an adult art.

The newest thing in radio broadcasting fashions is the composite programme. It consists, in brief, of a comparative (?) study of two or more types of music, as exemplified by the compositions of various men. In itself, this movement is very commendable, since it affords the radio audience a chance to become acquainted with the representative works of some of our greatest composers. It has its drawbacks in its incongruity. It is quite conceivable (and in many cases very true) that the man who arranges such a programme has a definite knowledge of the basic principles involved in the exposition which he is undertaking. Such men will arrange a broadcast which will be well worth hearing. But there is the other type of programme arranger, who has no more than a sketchy idea of music, and a lot of nerve. This is the type of person who will couple some of the greatest classics with the latest rage in swing (or Big Apple) and palm it off on the unsuspecting and gullible public. This is what we object to very strenuously.

The public is entitled to a fair deal from the broadcasters; but the public is also subject to a certain amount of intellectual snobbery. If the conductor of some band on the air decides to clothe his melange of slain-classics with a few high-sounding musical phrases, then, likely as not, he will be listened to, especially if some half-baked music student praises him. We are too ready to accept the opinion of one who is no more qualified to judge than we are, rather than betray our ignorance of things musical. That is the main reason why a lot of programs have taken to imitating the lions of radio in broadcasting these comparisons of music. It is permissible for an authority like Erno Rapee to compare and contrast the music of Tchaikowsky with that of Jerome Kern; but it is quite another thing for a small, relatively unknown two-piano team like Yuffy and Townsend to play Rubenstein's "Melody in F" and "Satan Takes a Holiday" on the same program.

INTERMEDIATES SCORE INITIAL WIN LAST NIGHT

Cuke Scores Touch — Team
Takes Eastward, 6-3

BEVERIDGE RED STAR

Atchison Kicks Well for Eastward

By D. A.
UNDAUNTED by the freezing weather and a scarcity of spectators, the McGill team won their first game of the season in the intermediate group with a 6-3 win over Coach MacDonald's Eastward team. Both teams needed last night's win to keep them in the running for the championship. The result was a very fast game from start to finish.

In the first quarter things looked bad for the Redmen as Lacroix of the Eastwards showed quick thinking by recovering a faulty snap and, kicking off the side of his foot, scored the first tally. Eastward continued to outplay the McGill team throughout the first and second quarter with McBurney punting two more singles to bring the score up to 3-0 for the Eastwards at the end of the first half.

McGILL SCORE TOUCHDOWN.

At the kick-off starting the third quarter Atchison caught McGill's punt and carried it back to the Redmen's thirty five yard in a spectacular run for the yellow and black team. But at this point in the game the McGill squad turned the tables and took the offensive for the remainder of the game. Although they failed to score in the third quarter, the college fans found something to cheer about as their team more than held their own. The big McGill push began when Eastward fumbled the ball on their thirty yard line and after a pile-up it was found to be McGill's ball. In the fourth quarter Cuke went through for a touchdown to put Buster Fletcher's boys in the lead by two points. With only a few minutes to play Cuke punted for a point to bring the final score to 6-3.

McGill's team played fast football with good performances being chalked up by Beveridge, Cox, Cuke and Eisberg. Frequent forward passes were tried by the Red team but this plan of attack failed entirely. McGill's kickers proved very satisfactory but their fine showing was perhaps eclipsed by the Eastward booter, Atchison. Although making many yards with their kicks, MacDonald's crew lost much ground on their poor snaps, losing the ball to the Redmen on two occasions.

Towards the end of the game one of the scrimmages ended in a short skirmish with Deziel, of the Eastwards throwing his excess weight around a little unnecessarily. At least the referee seemed to think so, and sent the yellow and black man to the bench, at the same time giving the McGill team fifteen yards. This extra yardage was used to advantage by Cuke when he kicked for the final point.

PREDICTION of week-end football results:
McGILL TO TAKE VARSITY by margin of a touch.

QUEENS TO DO THE SAME TO WESTERN, due to home ground advantage and kicking of Munro.

MONTREAL TO TAKE ARGOS as Elbowitz outkicks Isbister and Indian line stronger.

HAMILTON TO LOSE TO OTTAWA, as Rough Riders find the real form they failed to find last Saturday.

TOMORROW afternoon the annual football classic takes place.

The football may be good or bad — the score may be very close or terribly one-sided but all afternoon the crowd (which promises to be very big) will be on edge, expecting something to happen — here's hoping it's a couple of early touches for the Red team.

A FIFTY piece Toronto band is coming down along with a train load of supporters. Our band will be in attendance and it is to be hoped our cheer leaders will be right on the mark — so far this season their efforts have been very poor — after all we have other yells, as well as FIGHT FIGHT McGill.

THE loss of Prestie Robb for the game, plus the kicking advantage that Toronto should have, will make the result pretty. If the Red plungers can show the form they did against R.M.C. and the backfield can uncork a few smart end runs, the combination should take the ball across the line a couple of times.

ONE thing is certain; they need your support (not the wisecracking kind). Don't give your tickets away — use them yourself or don't use them at all.

YESTERDAY'S track results show that despite graduations of stars such as Munro Bourne, Phil Edwards, Gordie Meiklejohn, Ponder, etc., the team to go up to Toronto next week should have nearly as much power as of yore — don't forget second and third places count in the scoring too.

THE Intermediates won their first game last night — The kicking of Normie Cuke, snapping by Eisberg, all round ability of Beveridge — highlights of the game — Eisberg was at Dartmouth, may do most of the snapping Saturday for the Seniors.

game was the best of the season to date with good play sparkling. The McGill team had the better of the play with Snell playing a stand-out game.

The Red Soccer team plays Carsteel on Saturday which is one of the best teams in the city. This game will serve to put the team in fine fettle for the battle against Princeton the following week.

Goalie Hagen was knocked out of play in yesterday's game but was not seriously hurt. Fullback Hay, Frank Carey, Archer and Bernier all showed up well.

FRESHMEN OUTFIT MEETS LOYOLA IN GAME WEDNESDAY

Rest Over Week-end for Important League Tussle

BOTH TEAMS UNBEATEN

Frosh Field Strong Defensive Team, Though Offensive None Too Strong

FROSH footballers, who have been providing the opposition for the Seniors, will be able to watch their big brothers play this Saturday, as they do not play another league game till next Wednesday. At that time they will stack up against Loyola, who defeated Macdonald College last Saturday, up at the Stadium. Loyola have also taken Bishops into camp, so that a win for either team will place them in an enviable position.

In their practice with the Seniors Wednesday night the Frosh defensive play looked very good, but the offensive can still be improved upon according to Coach Wally Markham. Tonight the squad will concentrate on signals and improving their timing. Foster, Fabio, Neil and Stronach showed up well at running back the kicks. The practice tonight will be followed by a supper and chalk talk at the Union. Some football moving pictures will be shown.

The condition of the team as regards injuries at the present time is fairly good. Marshall, Neil and McClurg have slight leg injuries. While Sylvestre is laid up with a cold. All these men should be in shape by Saturday.

tain, as shown in last week's game against Western. Just what power it will show on the offensive is still a question. At that the line will have its work cut out trying to hold Don Mumford, Varsity's supposedly unstoppable plunging halfback.

The quarter-back task will be in the capable hands of reliable Ronnie Perowne, who has been sure and steady in calling and executing his plays. Barrie Gray, Varsity quarter, was injured in the game against Queen's, leaving Warren Stevens with the problem of a replacement.

Kenny Wilson has injured his back and may be kept out of the game Saturday. If such is the case, Doug Kerr said he will likely bring up Cliff Morse from the Intermediates to take a wing position. Arden Hedge, Jimmy Hall and Charlie Thompson will be on hand for some fleet downfield tackling.

How the Red team will hold out against Cam Gray's strong kicking is a dubious point. MacArthur or Hamilton will have a difficult job keeping pace with him. The aerial attack that McGill is flaunted for in all the rival college papers is something that fans will be looking for. If the Red team can unleash some real forward passes, the team should be able to go a long way in a short time.

The first appearance of the Red and White Band, and a fifty-piece band from Toronto, will create colour and turmoil between periods. A large crowd should witness one of the best football classics in many a year.

Breasting The Tape

By H. B. G.

OWING to the chilly weather only a small crowd of fans turned out for the Meet yesterday. As the track was sticky times were slow with only one track record toppling.

Larry O'Connor

The honour of that feat goes to Clarry Frankton, veteran distance runner, who smashed his own record for the three mile run which he established last year. Clarry displayed great form as he led Todd by several yards to the tape.

The only other record to fall was in the pole-vault when Bert Light of Commerce, and Intercollegiate champion, smashed the ten year old mark in that event.

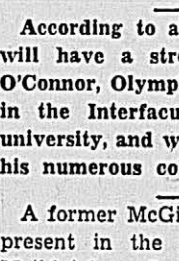

The meet unearthed a new find in Cooke who ran away with the mile and half-mile events. Cooke, who hails from Wisconsin, is a graduate student in Pulp and Paper Dept., and has considerable experience gained against American stars.

Moscovitz, another American star, gained for himself the title as McGill sprint champion for this year. Mosley led the rest of the boys down the stretch in the century, the 120 high hurdle, and the 220 low hurdle dashes. He also placed second in the 220 yard dash.

In the hurdles, Moscovitz beat Hugh Purdie, a member of last year's Intercollegiate team, to the tape both times.

A large delegation was sent in from Macdonald College. Led by Purdie, the St. Anne's athletes accumulated sixteen points. One of their sprint men, Anderson, gave Mason a scare in the 440 as he led the field until the home stretch was reached.

Cooke gave the fans a laugh and also a shock when he discarded too much of his clothing when appearing for the mile run. However, the new champion soon remedied his attire when it was brought to his notice.

Gordie Meiklejohn

As the Intercollegiate team has not been picked, the various athletes will continue practicing today and tomorrow before the squad will be selected. The big Meet is scheduled for Friday with Western, Toronto, and Queens also entered. McGill will be after its eighth consecutive title.

According to all reports Toronto will have a strong team. Larry O'Connor, Olympic star, cleaned up in the Interfaculty meet at that university, and will be out to retain his numerous college titles.

A former McGill weight star was present in the person of Gordie Meiklejohn who was on hand to see that his shot-put record remained intact on the books. Gordie graduated last spring, and to all accounts will be seen in a McGill Grad hockey uniform this winter.

STUDENTS HOLD GOLF TROPHY IN ANNUAL CLASSIC

Professors Fail to Lift Cup at Royal Montreal Course

COLLEGE MEET TODAY

Intercollegiate Teams Compete Over Week-end—McGill Defending Title

YESTERDAY at the Royal Montreal Golf Club the students and professors met in the seventeenth annual golf match, with the students emerging victorious for the twelfth time. By a point score the professors were defeated by a 23-8 total. All the gross totals were rather high due to the bad playing conditions.

WINNERS IN MATCHES.

The winners in the matches are as follows: Dr. Wilde and Dr. Henry beat Gray and Sawyer; Quart and Gohier beat Dean Clark and Dr. Sutherland; Keyes and Davies beat Professors Coulson and Scarth; Young and Lund beat Dean Walsh and Dr. Lamb; Dr. Fleet and Dr. Ross beat Stenstrom and Phelan; Berube and Gibson two points to Dr. Bentley and Dr. Saunders' one; Stanley and Cunningham beat Professor Christie and Lt.-Col. McLean; Jensen and Toll beat Professors Shaw and Keys; Kert and Soper beat Dean LeMesurier and Professor Carruthers; McCall and Darche two points to Professors White and Gibb's one, and Johnson and G. Crutchfield took two points, while Dr. Lowry and Dr. Ward gained one. Except where it has been mentioned, all matches gave the winners of the match three points.

On Wednesday at the Summerlea course the final tryouts for the Intercollegiate team were held. Those chosen by the captain and manager of the golf team and Dr. Lamb to represent McGill today and tomorrow were Paul Lund, Jack Cowie, Art Berube, Fred Davies, Ayton Keyes and Gordie Young. Today, beginning at nine a.m., the open tournament will be held to decide the individual championship and tomorrow the team championship will take place. All matches will be eighteen holes medal play. The tournament on Saturday will also begin at nine in the morning.

CO-ED ARCHERY

INITIAL try-outs for the co-ed archery team were held Wednesday but unfortunately only two people turned up. Practices will be held today at 10 and two o'clock and those interested are urged to come up to the Upper Stadium.

Phyllis McKenna, the individual archery champion, and Rhoda Shatsky are the only remaining members of last year's team. The two who turned out Wednesday were Audrey Macintosh and Marjorie Cushing, and there are many more places to be filled. So please turn out and try for them.

Under the direction of Cuthbert Gifford, the annual Financial Campaign of the S.C.M. will commence next Monday, and will continue for a week. Both students and faculty will be canvassed by members of the S.C.M. for an objective of $750. The contributions are used, for the most part, to maintain Strathcona Hall, but a small portion is sent to the National Council, and to the World S.C. Federation.

The objective for each faculty (both professors and students) is as follows: Medicine, $125; Law, $30; Engineering, $75; Arts and Science, $300; Theology, $85; Physical Education, Library School, and Commerce, $80; while the sale of martlets valued at $75 will bring the total to $750.

An organization luncheon will be held for canvassers at 1.00 p.m. today in the Gymnasium of Strathcona Hall. It is expected that each member will have been allotted to a team by that time.
